

---

COMMUNICATIONS DEPARTMENT

---

Free Online Keyboarding, Computer Apps Courses Will be Available to Aiken County Students This Summer

The Aiken County Public School District will offer online courses in Keyboarding and Computer Applications this summer to rising 7th-12th grade students free of charge.

Both courses may be taken concurrently for full high school credit. In addition to allowing students to earn credits, this program is also intended to provide more opportunities for students to participate in advanced technology courses during the regular school year.

"We're excited to provide access this summer to courses that will allow students to accelerate learning and provide the acquisition of foundational skills necessary for higher-level coursework in high-interest technology areas such as coding, networking and cyber security," Aiken County Superintendent Dr. Sean Alford stated.

Online registration will continue through June 9, and the Virtual Academy session will be held from June 13 through July 27.

Parents and students can access more information from their school guidance